

Early Journal Content on JSTOR, Free to Anyone in the World

This article is one of nearly 500,000 scholarly works digitized and made freely available to everyone in the world by JSTOR.

Known as the Early Journal Content, this set of works include research articles, news, letters, and other writings published in more than 200 of the oldest leading academic journals. The works date from the mid-seventeenth to the early twentieth centuries.

We encourage people to read and share the Early Journal Content openly and to tell others that this resource exists. People may post this content online or redistribute in any way for non-commercial purposes.

Read more about Early Journal Content at <http://about.jstor.org/participate-jstor/individuals/early-journal-content>.

JSTOR is a digital library of academic journals, books, and primary source objects. JSTOR helps people discover, use, and build upon a wide range of content through a powerful research and teaching platform, and preserves this content for future generations. JSTOR is part of ITHAKA, a not-for-profit organization that also includes Ithaka S+R and Portico. For more information about JSTOR, please contact support@jstor.org.

gence—may be made a condition of all voting and the ignorant male voter in that way eliminated.

Woman's suffrage (which seems to be coming) thus qualified would become a help to the country. Without qualification, it will be no help at all. This proposition, properly put by a facile and strong writer, should appeal to the suffragists themselves, it seems to me. I see no other way to raise the standard of voters in this country.

CHICAGO, ILL.

ARTHUR T. GALT.

TEACH IT IN THE SCHOOLS

SIR,—You must have a great deal of trouble in the States over the education of the present generation of German-American children. You will also have to face the question of the Germanizing of the next generation that will be carried out by parents.

The remedy is simple. Prepare textbooks, for use in all classes in all schools, giving a fair and true account of the war and its authors, the manner in which it has been fought and the policy of the Huns generally. Let every little child, every boy and girl, every young man and woman, be examined in these textbooks every term throughout their educational life. Even if they do not fully realize the sin and the folly of the crimes of the Kaiser and his satellites, the truth must sink in, and whether they think it a sin or a folly or both will depend upon their moral characters.

I am not so sure that the only way to avoid another war in some years' time is for the Allies to make it one of the conditions of peace that the truth be instilled into the coming generations of young Huns in Germany by similar means.

AUCKLAND, NEW ZEALAND.

J. MARJORIBANKS STEELE.

URGENT

SIR,—I have received no copies of either the WAR WEEKLY or the REVIEW for some time. If my subscription has expired, kindly renew it immediately, drawing on me for one or two years in advance, as you prefer. Anything so that you reinstate me at once. Regards and success to you.

KANSAS CITY, MO.

JOHN F. KENDIG.